Inmate Supervision and IPC Skills

November 2-4

8:00 AM – 4:00 PM

This course is a modified version of the National Institute of Corrections' How to Run a Direct Supervision Housing Unit and Interpersonal Communication (IPC) curriculums, adapted to better serve all jail facilities across the state. Our vision is simple yet powerful: "It's a state of mind ~ not jail design."

Designed to meet the needs of all correctional officers, whether new to the field or seasoned veterans, this class emphasizes practical skills, effective communication, and a mindset that supports safe, respectful, and proactive supervision in any facility layout.

We will cover the following skills: Leadership, decision making, conflict management, managing difficult situations, problem solving, planning and goal setting, time management, IPC, verbal Judo, and the art of persuasion.

This course will meet the 2911 requirement for yearly training in these areas.
